

UP IN BUSY HARLEM.

WHAT ITS PEOPLE DO FOR AMUSEMENT, INSTRUCTION AND CHARITY.

The Jefferson dinner of the Harlem Democratic Club on Wednesday evening was the chief social occurrence in a week which, as might have been expected, was somewhat barren of happenings of that kind. The club is to be congratulated upon the success it achieved, and especially because it was able to provide so fine an entertainment and still rely wholly upon its own resources. The hall in which sat the diners, nearly all club members, with the exception of a few invited guests, was well adapted to the purpose to which it was put on Wednesday evening, and the report supplied by the club steward and his staff of cooks and waiters, who had been creditable to an organization whose chief object of existence was gastronomy and not politics.

The work of Thomas's orchestra at Hammerstein's Opera House was one, judged from the size of the audiences, which afforded more pleasure to the public than profit to the management. Yet Mr. Hammerstein was no look of melancholy, wisely reflecting, no doubt, that amusement catering is a good deal like a lottery, and that a manager of a "combination" house must now and then expect a "cold" performance, and be content for the time being with the worth of the advertisement and a prospective return. Mr. Thomas gave a little graver and a little more laid every year, but his dress-cut fits his broad back as smoothly as ever, and his right arm has lost none of its gracefulness with the baton.

The subject of Saturday afternoon concerts in Morris Park is one that still agitates the popular imagination. The Park Commissioners to have them are being unanimously signed.

The sessions of the Methodist Conference, fully reported in The Tribune during the week, have excited considerable interest in religious circles, many of the meetings being well attended by representatives of other denominations.

Harlem Council No. 204, Royal Templars of Temple, celebrated its sixtieth anniversary on Monday evening by an entertainment in its rooms in the Highton Building, No. 110 East One-hundred-and-twenty-fifth street. Among those taking part in the literary and musical programme were Miss Marks, the Misses Lillie, Viola and Virginia Osborn, Mrs. Looker, Miss Cleaver, A. N. Cleaver, the Misses Addie and Walter, T. P. Diven, Miss Emma, the Empress Quartet, Morris Mayer, L. S. Phillips, E. Mann, A. Levy, B. Wertheim, J. D. Greenhagen, Louis Metzger, M. P. Anzorge, Otto Sampter, A. S. Ellison, H. Emanuel, M. Liss, M. Mendelsohn, L. Nebenzahl, M. Nathan, S. Silberberg, D. Schiff, J. Schiff, A. Lesser, H. Newman, J. Wertheim; programme committee, the Rev. Dr. J. H. Harris, Mrs. D. P. Hays, Mrs. B. Goodstein, Mrs. M. H. Harris, Mrs. S. Denner, Miss Kammack, Mrs. Greenhagen, Mrs. S. H. Emanuel, Miss Siegel, Miss Orenberg, Miss G. Cohen, Mrs. A. N. Rotholz, Mrs. S. Well, Mrs. A. Springer, Mrs. H. Wertheim, Miss L. Klein, Mrs. D. Mayer, Mrs. Silberberg, Miss J. Reschower, Mrs. C. L. Sulzberger; press committee, D. P. Hays, A. Levy, J. Steinglanz, S. Rosenblatt; refreshment committee, D. The relation between rapid transit and cheap literature may not be apparent at first thought, nevertheless there is a connection by no means remote. Students of affairs have assigned many reasons for the use of the cheap book, cheap too often in literary as well as mechanical quality, but were they to travel frequently over the surface car lines between West City Hall and Harlem they would find another cause for speculation.

The passenger traffic over these lines, in spite of the elevated roads, and all the passengers read. The business man who can afford to go down late, the wife going shopping, the school girl on her reluctant way, the nursemaid with child in arms—all are protected against the tedium of the journey by pocket editions of popular literature.

Lesser or greater editions of popular literature are not yet acquired the reading habit and thus far the horses have escaped the prevailing epidemic. Any one can see at a glance that a system of perfect rapid transit which would lessen the travelling time by a half would have an important influence upon the sales of cheap literature.

The members of the Unity Social Club are rehearsing for their annual show, which will take place at West City Hall April 12. For the first time in the history of amateur minstrelsy in Harlem, women will be seen with black faces—some of the female members of the Unity having considered the matter and decided to claim to be of the place of Mrs. E. L. Newman, who had been acting principal since last October.

SPECIAL EASTER SERVICES IN MANY OF THE CHURCHES.

The special Easter services for today will be held in most of the churches in the outlying wards. All of the Episcopal, Catholic, and Protestant Episcopal churches of course will have services of song for which the organists and choirs have made preparations for many weeks. The Centenary Methodist Episcopal Church and the First Congregational Church of Manhattan, the Alexander Avenue Baptist Church, the Trinity Evangelical Church, the Union Reformed Church, the First Presbyterian Church of Harlem, the First Presbyterian Church of Tremont, the First Methodist Episcopal Church, the Woodstock Presbyterian Church, and many other churches will also hold musical services appropriate to the day. The services at Trinity Church, Manhattan, of which the Rev. A. S. Hall is pastor, will be the first held in the new building in one hundred and sixty-fourth street, near Madison Avenue. The work on the interior of the building is not completed, but the organ and altar have been arranged so that the congregation might occupy the building on the joyful occasion of this dedication. The members of the Sunday-school of Grace Church, West Farms, will go to the House of Incubation this afternoon to sing Easter carols for the benefit of the Sunday-school of Grace Church, West Farms. THIRTY YEARS A PASTOR.

DR. CUYLER TO END HIS ACTIVE MINISTRY TO-DAY.

HIS CAREER IN AND OUT OF THE PULPIT—ONE OF THE MOST SUCCESSFUL OF BROOKLYN'S PREACHERS—BOOKS FROM HIS PEN.

The names of four ministers are identified to a remarkable degree with the history of Brooklyn, for they have played an important part in public affairs outside of their church life, and have had much to do with making the name of the city known outside of the limits of its own territory. These eminent men of the city are, Dr. Cuyler, Dr. Talmage, and Dr. Rogers. The first-named with apparently undiminished powers, after more than forty years of successful service, is still at his post, making, not only Brooklyn, but the whole country, his debtor by his work in the cause of Congregationalism. The second in the list passed from earth in the fullness of his days, when his age was little more than three score years and ten, but he had accomplished more than most men could do in half a dozen ordinary lifetimes. The third of the quartet is about to end his public ministry in the city where he has been known and honored for thirty years, and the last in the list—pastor, now almost widely known preacher in America—about to leave the scope and importance of his work in a new and spacious church.

As Dr. Talmage is about to begin his career on "The Hill," Dr. Cuyler is about to leave his work in that part of the city in which he is so long been one of the most conspicuous figures.

In his style both in his spoken and his written words Dr. Cuyler is clear and concise, but at the same time earnest and sparkling. He aims to concentrate attention by striking and pointed utterances and then to confirm the impression made by telling argument, and to make his words a reality in the lives of his hearers. He is an earnest and incisive speaker and carries home the conviction of his positive beliefs. His tone is by no means morbid, and his words are full of life and vigor. He has added to his list of successful utterances, and this is forgotten in the full tide of eloquent utterance.

Dr. Cuyler will offer his formal resignation to his pastorate today, the thirtieth anniversary of his work in Brooklyn, and will preach a sermon reviewing the career of his life. He has been in Brooklyn for thirty years, and has been a member of the church for thirty years. He has been a member of the church for thirty years, and has been a member of the church for thirty years.

AMONG THE CLUB-MEN.

FINE SUMMER PROGRAMME OF THE MARINE AND FIELD.

The Marine and Field Club give the last of their series of highly successful subscription dinners in the main dining-room of the Bay Ridge club-house last night. Like those that have preceded it, the feast was a purely informal one. Conversers spread for sixty and James R. Cowing, the president of the club, acted as chairman. The speeches of the evening were made by W. S. Logan, Charles A. Deshon and William H. Kaser. Among those present were:

J. A. Clifton, Hugh Boyd, L. De C. Berg, H. P. Allen, Herbert W. Cowing, Arthur Hurst, S. R. Grosser, Charles A. Deshon, W. S. Logan, W. H. Kaser, James R. Cowing, J. A. Clifton, Hugh Boyd, L
